

Stuart McCandless

Stuart has a degree in Environmental Education and a teaching credential from the University of Utah. He has taught and mentored undergraduate students in the University of Utah Educational Studies Department and has experience teaching sixth grade in the Salt Lake City School District. Stuart has also developed and presented environmental programs at Red Butte Garden and Arboretum and led interpretive hikes for the U.S. Forest Service. He enjoys mountain biking, hiking, and skiing.