

Rebecca Fillion

Rebecca has loved teaching fourth grade at Rowland Hall for the past thirteen years. She has a degree in elementary education from the University of Utah and began her teaching career in the Salt Lake District's extended learning program. Prior to teaching, she was an award-winning television writer and producer, having earned a B.A. degree in film and television production from UCLA. Rebecca entered teaching because of her dedication to children and brings valuable experience, enthusiasm, and a love of the outdoors to her fourth grade students. She attended Rowland Hall as an elementary student and has a daughter in the upper school. Her oldest daughter is a Rowland Hall graduate and a recent college graduate. Rebecca is an avid reader, writer, knitter, and yoga student. She and her family enjoy skiing, traveling, cooking, and reading together.
