

Sarah Button

This is Sarah's 19th year of teaching. She is enjoying her eleventh year at Rowland Hall and still gets excited for the first day of school. Sarah taught eight years with the New York City Board of Education at P.S. 15 in Redhook, Brooklyn. She was a self-contained and inclusion teacher for students with learning disabilities and behavior disorders. Her Special Education degree was of great use teaching grades three through six, but teaching fifth grade at Rowland Hall is her absolute favorite! She holds a B.S. in Geography and a minor in Special Education from the University of Oregon. She earned her M.Ed. from Portland State University with an emphasis in conflict resolution and character education. Sarah is married to Mark Button, an Associate Professor at the University of Utah with the Department of Political Science. He recently published his first book titled: Contract, Culture, and Citizenship: Transformative Liberalism from Hobbes to Rawls. Sarah's two daughters attend Rowland Hall. Her newest hobby is training for sprint triathlons. She is originally from Seattle, Washington but now calls Salt Lake City her home.
