

Sofia Gorder,

Sofia Gorder earned her Masters of Arts degree at California State University Long Beach in dance education and choreography. She received her Bachelors of Fine Arts degree in modern dance at the University of Utah. She has choreographed for and performed in concert with many professional companies, organizations, and commercial businesses. She is most inspired by local grass-root collectives and projects. She is a member of the improvisation company, Movement Forum, and the Creative Director of inFlux Dance. Sofia believes in dance education and continually looks for ways to share her opportunities as a professional with her high school dancers by incorporating them in professional concerts as well as collaborative choreographic and improvisational endeavors. Sofia's charge is to cultivate a healthy dance community in SLC by launching programs at Rowland Hall making it home to professional national and international resident artists and college students alike. When Sofia's not thinking about dance, she is hanging out with her family.